The net proceeds of The Tennis Ball are shared equally between GIYM and IC Philanthropy (ICP) both of which are UK registered charities. These proceeds will be held separately by GIYM and ICP for distribution to their respective programmes. The monies raised for GIYM will be used to provide clinics in the UK for underprivileged children. The monies raised for ICP will be used and overseen by ICs in countries around the world to provide tennis programmes for disadvantaged children and young people. From the ICP's share of the proceeds from The Tennis Ball, the IC Council will be paid a royalty fee of £500 per programme up to a maximum £6000 or less if the expenses of running ICP exceed 10% of ICP's net revenue. This fee covers the work of the IC Council in publicising the programmes for ICs to run, fundraising and maintaining the network through which programmes can be developed. In years when there is no Tennis Ball the IC Council will continue to receive a fee calculated on the same basis. Give It Your Max: charity no. 1140804 IC Philanthropy Foundation: charity no.1167925
